LOCALETS

T. A. Kennedy was in Calgary over Sunday.

Mr. Owens has moved his offices in to the new depot.

A. Parker was in Wetaskewin and Calgary over the week end.

A Parker expects a car load of preserving fruit in on to-night's train.

W. H. Smith has a carpenter out at his farm remodeling his farm residence.

The Red Cross Society cleared a sum of ninety dollars at the booth on fair day.

Dr. Agnew, dentist, of Medicine Hat made his regular monthly call to Lomond this week.

Mr. Dosse, travelling superintendent for the Pioneer Lumber Co., was in Lomond on Wednesday.

Miss Lindsay, sister of T. J. Lindsay, is working out of Lomond this week buying wheat in the interests of the Strong & Dowler Grain Co.

John Egle, chief matron of Bobbie Moir's hospital felt as if he was contracting a serious malady. A medical examination proved him to be on the safe side.

J. A. Bowers delivered his thirteenth threshing outfit on Wednesday to Messrs. Galbraith, Beagle and Dawson, of Armada, it being a 12-22 Sawyer-Massey outfit.

Duck hunters have been making spasmodic trips to the neighboring lakes since the season opened. Judging from the numerous birds brought in they must be fairly good shots.

W. A. Teskey has had his fall ploughing done and is now considering the erection of a greenhouse over his cute little garden spot. With plenty of water in his cistern to irrigate the success would be certain.

Mrs. A. Greenwood has received her stock of fall millinery and has some on display. She shows a very fine selection of new fall styles and her show rooms have attracted ladies of the town and district who delight in such displays of dame fashion.

Last Thursday evening a number of friends and neighbors of T. M. Wilson raided his home at Armada and gave him a birthday surprise party. Mr. Wilson has rented his farm to George Brotherhood and will hold an auction sale this fall and leave for his home in the States to reside.

As several have been asking for the list of prize winners to be published in the Press, we might just here state that it is our intention to publish same as soon as available. There is a great deal of work in connection with the compiling of said list, especially in a first time exhibition, and we hope to have at least half of said report for next issue.

A. Harvey, organizer of the Non-Partisan League, spent the week end in Calgary.

W. H. Smith, of Smith & Moran, made a business trip to Calgary, returning Monday.

The fixtures for the new bank offices arrived last Friday night and carpenters were put to work on Saturday to get the place in readiness for the move. The change in premises will be effected some time this week.

Mrs. Gordon Varcoe is enjoying a visit from her brother, Mr. Ritchie. Mr. Ritchie went overseas with the C. E. F. and in England contracted inflammatory rheumatism and was sent home to Canada to recuperate. Mr. Ritchie's visit is a double pleasure, by the fact that his mother is still visiting in Lomond.

The country was thoroughly drenched again on Saturday with a rain sufficient to delay threshing till Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning. Threshing weather has been scarce this fall, or at least the days have been scattered. The reports of yields appear more satisfactory than when the threshing first commenced, several crops going as high as thirty per acre.

Help Is Urgently Needed

The following is an extract from a report just received from one of the delegates who visited one of the destroyed French towns in the area evacuated by the Germans.

"When we reached Noyon and Ham and began to visit the hospitals, I did not feel as helpless as I have felt ever since coming into the region. Here was something I knew about, and something I felt we could perhaps help. I will not go into details—it would only harrow you. The men were, of course, the gravely wounded; in one ward of one hospital they were all condemned. Nowhere did we find any pillows, nowhere any rubber cushions, nowhere any back-rests. In one hospital a man shot in the back was half lying, half sitting, propped up by his overcoat. In another, the orderly begged an air cushion for a man wounded in so many places that he could not stand the weight of his own body. In the great tent evacuating hospital the floor was of trampled earth. The Medecine Chef said it had been mud when they raised the tents a few days ago. Here they asked for linoleum to lay beside the beds. Milk was impossible to find, condensed milk almost as difficult to get. (I forgot to tell you that almost everywhere one sees signs which condemn the water in the wells.) Could they have oranges, stimulants, blankets, medicaments? These over-worked surgeons and nurses have no time to write to the various societies, and what they need they need at once. The visits of our Delegates, therefore, are a relief to them. I hope that no wounded in any hospital will suffer for lack of the things we saw wanting here. But the thought of the hospitals elsewhere that we had not visited haunted me."

Hughes--Irwin.

An event of interest to the people of Lomond was solemnized at Calgary on Wednesday, Sept. 5th., when Mr. R. H. Hughes, druggist, of Lomond, was united in marriage to Miss S. Irwin, of Ripley, Ontario, Rev. H. W. Knowle, D. D., officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes took a trip of a few days going to Banff, coming to their home at Lomond on Wednesday afternoon of this week. They will take up their residence in the cottage Mr. Hughes recently moved to his property on Centre Street.

The Press extends the heartiest congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Hughes and a warm welcome on behalf of the town to Mrs. Hughes.

Town Takes Over Water Delivery Supply.

The village council has taken over the water distribution business in Lomond and have hired J. Lawler with a four-up outfit to do the necessary work. The water is now being hauled from the spring about nine miles out of town until one of the local wells can be put into shape to give the supply. The money collected for the water goes into the municipal treasury. It is the purpose of the council to utilize the teams on the streets to do grading on the street if they can more than compete with the water demand.

Government Sets Wheat Price At $2.21 Per Bushel At Fort William.

Reports came through on Wednesday that the Board of Grain Supervisors had decided on a set price to be paid in Canada for the 1917 wheat crop. The price is $2.21 based in store at Fort William. This gives Lomond a street price of $2.02 for No. 1. Northern.

Under regular circumstances this is a good working profit for the farmers but it yet remains for the government to take charge of the other commodities so as to give every one producer the same leg to stand on.

Advertising

Speaking of advertising, here is what some of the publishers charge for space: Ladies home Journal, $8 a line or $104 per inch, and $6,000 for a full page each issue; the back cover sells for $10,000. A full page advertisement in the Saturday Evening Post sells for $5,000, and the back cover sells for $7,000; and the centre page in color is $12,000. As this advertising space is always filled, it is evident that advertising pays even at these prices.—Petrolia Advertiser.

A Household Treasure.

Mrs. Smith—And are you an early riser? New Maid—Yes m'm, a very early one m'm. I can make my fire, boil my kettle, make breakfast, and make all the beds before anyone else in the house gets up.

TRAVERS

Ladies Aid meet Wednesday in the hall to finish the quilting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ulrick were visitors in Champion on Tuesday.

Mrs. Lizzie Weist spent Wednesday in town with Mrs. Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Holden made a business trip to Barons returning by of Champion.

Mrs. Verne Davies and Miss Davies, of Lomond, were shopping in Travers Wednesday evening.

Mr. Arkett is the new cashier in the bank for an indefinite time he came from campbellford Ontario.

Mr. Naismith has re sided his house and given it a coat of paint also the rooming house is being painted.

Mr. Cork, of Bow City has purchased the South Livery Barn here and also the residence and will move in on Friday.

Earl Jones motored to Lethbridge to meet his brother Guy to visit his Parents before leaving with the Dental Corps in the U. S. A.

Threshing has been abandoned for the past week owing to the rain and cloudy weather the machines started up Thursday again for a few days run.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Elliott motored to Medicine Hat Tuesday returning Wednesday having went there to file on a half section in the Red Deer district.

Mr. and Mrs. Holden and son returned this week from a four months trip to the State, visiting in Illinois and Iowa with relatives and friends, their youngest son Clyde returned with them and expects to start up farming here.

Mrs. H. Rounds who has been ailing for some time with heart trouble and other maladies was taken to the Lethbridge Hospital Wednesday. Her son Harry who was at Calgary was telegraphed for. It is hoped she will gain rapid strength.

Mrs. Stamp's youngest son Fred returned last week from England. He enlisted and has been there a year or more but was too young and health did not permit his going into the trenches. Mrs. Stamp naturally is glad to have him with her as she has given up an older son to the strife.

Britain's Coming Air Fleet.

No fewer than a hundred factories are engaged on some process or other connected with the construction and equipment of the flying machine. In Great Britain, according to a statement issued by Dr. Addison, output is increasing by leads and bounds. If, for the purpose of comparison, you put the number of airplanes produced in May, 1916, at 100 then in May of this year the number rose to rather more than 300.

To meet the demand for labor special schools have been started over the country.

The Elections Act.

1. The franchise is extended to the wives, sisters and daughters of members of Canadian forces overseas.

2. The bill disqualifies, for the war-time election, those of alien enemy birth, or of other European birth and of alien enemy mother tongue or native language, who have been naturalized in Canada since March 31, 1902.

From this clause are excepted those of this class who have grandsons and brothers in the overseas forces. Armenians and Syrians known to be out of sympathy with Turkey are also excepted.

3. All those exempted from military service by the section of Military act, which applies to certain Doukhobors and Mennonites, are disqualified.

4. All who have applied for and have not been refused exemption from combatant service in the war on conscientious grounds are disqualified. Any person who votes in the war-time election shall not thereafter be entitled to exemption on conscientious grounds.

5. Any person who has been convicted of an offence under the Military Service act shall be disqualified from voting.

6. The provincial franchise is adopted in all the nine provinces. Heretofore Alberta and Saskatchewan, as well as the Yukon, have had federalists.

7. In the province of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Prince Edward Island, where the existing lists are such that they cannot be used, lists will be made by enumerators and electors whose names are omitted may "swear to" their votes on election day. Such votes are placed in a special envelope and on a recount, should it appear that there are enough votes placed in envelopes to affect the result, the right to vote is revived by a judge and it is admitted if proper. The of the enumerator is also subjected to judicial revision.

8. In the counties of Ontario and the provinces of Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, existing list will be used, with the exception that the names of women eligible to vote will be added by enumerators, who will strike off the names of aliens.

9. In Ontario, in cities of over 9,000, list will have to be made. The method adopted will be virtually the same as if it were done by provincial legislation.

Negotiations are said to be under way for the building of a paper mill in Winnipeg with a proposed capacity of of 50 tons a day, and to employ 500 hands. Large areas of suitable timber are available in Northern Manitoba and it is also stated that the conversion of waste paper into wrapping paper will be undertaken.

In 1916 Canadian exports in iron and steel products, in breadstuffs and in provisions, have reached a record value, produce alone being exported to the value of $882,872,502 to all countries but chiefly to the United Kingdom.

Support home industries if it does cost a few cents more annually.

Economy is the cry of the government.
Eliminate waste and luxury.

This is where the Ford steps in. It has proven to be the car with the lowest cost of upkeep for the greatest amount of real service rendered. To the great majority of farmers in this country a Ford is a real necessity. It eliminates the distance from machinery repairs, from the services of a doctor, from school, from the necessary forms of educational amusement.

But, when you get into the high priced heavy car you run into luxury - - because they cannot compete.

SYNOPSIS

Just previous to the outbreak of the European war Jane Gerson, buyer for a New York house, meets a Captain Woodhouse on a train for Paris. He tells her he is en route for Egypt.

Louisa, a spy, meets Billy Capper, another spy, in Berlin. She promises him a job and a number with the Wilhelmstrasse. Then Woodhouse meets Louisa and is observed by some American tourists. Henry Sherman and family.

Woodhouse (the name is assumed) is in a plot with Louisa to impersonate an English officer of that name, who is to be transferred from Wady Halfa to take charge of the signal tower at Gibraltar. Woodhouse, by agreement, purloins Capper's Wilhelmstrasse number.

Woodhouse proceeds to Alexandria and in Ramleh seeks Dr. Koch, a German spy. He shows him the number. Capper appears and makes trouble.

Woodhouse allays Koch's suspicions. Capper secretes himself in a neighboring garden and spies on Dr. Koch.

Capper sees the real Woodhouse borne out unconscious from Dr. Koch's house and follows the pseudo Woodhouse to Gibraltar. The latter stops overnight with Joseph Almer, proprietor of the Hotel Splendide, and a German spy. Louisa is in Gibraltar in disguise.

Henry Sherman and family are stopping at the Splendide. Suddenly Jane Gerson appears, having with difficulty left Paris. All await a boat.

Lady Crandall, the American wife of Gibraltar's governor, visits the Splendide, is delighted with Jane's samples of gowns and invites her to stay at Government House. Woodhouse encounters Jane, but denies any previous meeting.

Almer informs Woodhouse that a friend is stationed at Government House and that from the signal tower every mine in the harbor can be exploded. The British fleet is due.

Woodhouse pays his respects to General Crandall, and Capper follows to inform upon him and tells of his experience at Ramleh.

Crandall has his suspicions aroused concerning Woodhouse, but nevertheless orders Capper out of Gibraltar.

Crandall questions Jane Gerson about Woodhouse, suspecting a previous acquaintance, but gains no information.

CHAPTER XIII.

Her Country's Example.

"Do you know, my dear, Cynthia Maxwell is simply a pig to die with envy when she sees me in this!"

The plump little mistress of Government House, standing before a full length mirror in her boudoir, surveyed herself with intense satisfaction. Her arms and neck burst startlingly from the clinging sheath of the incomparable gown that was Jane Gerson's doucement for official protection. In the flood of morning light pouring through the mullioned windows Lady Crandall seemed a pink and white—and somewhat florid—lily in bloom out of time. Hildebrand's buyer, on her knees and with deft fingers busy with the soft folds of the skirt, answered through a mouthful of pins:

"Poor Cynthia! My heart goes out to her."

"Oh, it needn't!" Lady Crandall answered, with a tilting of her strictly Iowa style nose.—"The Maxwell person has made me bleed more than once here on the Rock with the gowns a fond mamma sends her from Paris. But, honestly, isn't this a bit low for a staid, middle aged person like myself? I'm afraid I'll have trouble getting past the censor." Lady Crandall plumed herself with secret joy.

Jane looked up, puzzled.

"Oh, that's old Lady Porter—a per-rect dragon," the general's wife rattled on. "Poor old dear, she thinks the Lord put her on the Rock for a purpose. Her own collars get higher and higher. I believe if she ever was presented at court she'd emulate the old Scotch lady who followed the law of décolleté, but preserved her self respect by wearing a red flannel chest protector. You must meet her."

"I'm afraid I won't have time to get a look at your dragon," Jane returned, with a little laugh, all happiness. "Now that Sir George has promised me I shall be on the Rock on Friday."

"You really must!" The envious eyes of Lady Crandall fell on the pile of plans—potent Delphic mysteries to charm the heart of woman—that lay scattered about upon the floor.

Jane sat back on her heels and surveyed the melting folds of satin with an artist's eye.

"If you only knew what it means to me to get back with my baskets full of French beauties! Why, when I screwed up my courage two months ago to go to old Hildebrand and ask him to send me abroad as a buyer—I'd been studying drawing and French at nights for three years in preparation, you see—he roared like the dear old lion he is and said I was too young. But I cooed and pleaded, and at last he said I could come on trial, and so—"

"He'll pur like a pussycat when you get back," Lady Crandall put in, with a pat on the brown head at her knees.

"Maybe. If I can slip into New York with my little baskets while all the other buyers are still over here, cabling tearfully for money to get home or asking their firms to send a warship to fetch them—why, I guess the pennant's mine all right."

The eternal feminine, so strong in Iowa's transplanted-stock, prompted a mischievous question:

"Then you won't be leaving somebody behind when you sail—somebody who seemed awfully nice and—foreign and all that? All our American girls find the moonlight over on this side infectious. Witness me—a 'finishing trip' abroad after school days—and see where I've finished—on a Rock!" Lady Crandall bubbled laughter. A shrewd downward sweep of her eye was just in time to catch a flush mounting to Jane's cheeks.

"Well, a mysterious stranger has crossed my path," Jane admitted. "He was very nice, but mysterious."

"Oh!" A delighted gurgle from the older woman. "Tell me all about it—a secret for these ancient walls to hear."

Jane was about to reply when second thought checked her tongue. Before her flashed that strange meeting with Captain Woodhouse the night before—his denial of their former meeting, followed by his curious insistence on her keeping faith with him by not revealing the fact of their acquaintance. She had promised—why she had promised she could no more divine than the reason for his asking, but a promise it was that she would not betray his confidence. More than once since that minute in the reception room of the Hotel Splendide Jane Gerson had reviewed the whole baffling circumstances in her mind, and a growing resentment at this stranger's demand as well as at her own compliance with it was rising in her heart. Still, this Captain Woodhouse was "different," and—this Jane sensed without effort to analyze—the mystery which he threw about himself but served to set him apart from the common run of men. She evaded Lady Crandall's probing with a shrug of the shoulders.

"It's a secret which I myself do not know, Lady Crandall, and never will." Back to the overweening lure of the gown the flitting fancy of the general's lady betook itself.

"You—don't think this is a shade too young for me, Miss Gerson?" Anxiety pleaded to be quashed.

"Nonsense!" Jane laughed.

"But I'm no chicken, my dear. If you would look me up in our family Bible back in Davenport you'd find"—Her maid knocked and entered on the lady's crisp "Come!"

"The general wishes to see you, Lady Crandall, in the library."

"Tell the general I'm in the midst of trying on"—Lady Crandall began, then thought better of her excuse. She dropped the shimmering gown from her shoulders and slipped into a kimono.

"Some stuffy plan for entertaining somebody or other, my dear"—this to Jane. "The real burden of being governor general of the Rock falls on the general's wife. Just slip into your bonnet, and when I'm back we'll take that little stroll through the Alameda I've promised you for this morning." She clutched her kimono about her and whisked out of the room.

General Crandall, just rid of the dubious pleasure of Billy Capper's company, was pacing the floor of the library office thoughtfully. He looked up with a smile at his wife's entrance.

"Helen, I want you to do something for me," he said.

"Certainly, dear!" Lady Crandall was not an unpleasing picture of ripe beauty to look on in the soft drape of her Japanese robe. Even in his worry General Crandall found himself intrigued for the minute.

"There's a new chap in the signal service—just in from Egypt—name's Woodhouse. I wish you would invite him to tea, my dear."

"Of course, any day."

"This afternoon, if you please, Helen," the general followed.

His wife looked slightly puzzled.

"This afternoon? But, George, dear, isn't that—aren't you—ah—rushing this young man to have him up to Government House so soon after his arrival? She suddenly remembered something that caused her to reverse herself. "Besides, I've asked him to dinner—the dinner I'm to give the Americans tomorrow night before they sail."

General Crandall looked his surprise. "You didn't tell me that. I didn't know you had met him."

"Just happened to," Lady Crandall cut in hastily. "Met him at the Hotel Splendide last night when I brought Miss Gerson home with me."

"What was Woodhouse doing at the Splendide?" the general asked suspiciously.

"Why, spending the night, you foolish boy. Just off the Princess Mary, he was. I believe he did Miss Gerson some sort of service—and I met him in that way—quite informally."

"Did Miss Gerson—a service—hum?"

"Oh, a trifling thing! It seemed she had only French money, and that cautious Almer fellow wouldn't accept it. Captain Woodhouse gave her English gold for it—to pay her bill. But why?"

"Has Miss Gerson seen him since?" General Crandall asked sharply.

"Why, George, dear, how could she? We haven't been up from the breakfast table an hour."

"Woodhouse was here less than an hour ago to pay his duty call and report," he explained. "I thought perhaps he might have met our guest somewhere in the garden as he was coming or going."

"He did send her some lovely roses." Lady Crandall brightened at this, to her, patent inception of a romance. She doted on romances. "They were in Miss Gerson's room before she was down to breakfast."

"Roses, eh? And they met informally at the Splendide only last night." Suspicion was weighing the general's words. "Isn't that a bit sudden? I say, do you think Miss Gerson and this Captain Woodhouse had met somewhere before last night?"

"I hardly think so—she on her first trip to the continent and he coming from Egypt. But"—

"No matter. I want him here to tea this afternoon." The general dismissed the subject and turned to his desk. His lady's curiosity would not be so lightly turned away.

"All these questions—aren't they rather absurd? Is anything wrong?" She ran up to him and laid her hands on his shoulders.

"Of course not, dear." He kissed her lightly on the brow. "Now run along and play with that new gown Miss Gerson gave you. I imagine that's the most important thing on the Rock today."

Lady Crandall gave her soldier husband a peck on each cheek and skipped back to her room. When he was alone again General Crandall resumed his restless pacing. Resolution suddenly crystallized, and he stepped to the desk telephone. He called a number.

"That you, Bishop? General Crandall speaking. Bishop, you were here on the Rock seven years ago? Good! Pretty good memory for names and faces, eh? Right! I want you to come to Government House for tea at 5 this afternoon. But run over for a little talk with me some time earlier—an hour from now, say. Rather important. You'll be here. Thank you."

A young fellow from the country called on Henry Ford in his workshop, the other day, and the manufacturer, not knowing exactly what to show him, picked up a powerful magnet and said:

"That magnet will draw three pounds of iron from a distance of two feet. There is no natural object on the face of the earth that has more power."

"I dunno about that, Mr. Ford" answered the young countryman thoughtfully, "I know a natural object, wrapped in muslin and frills, that is drawing me every Sunday evening over 15 miles of plowed fields."

This and That.

Kernsky is working 24-hour shifts trying to get the kinks out of the Russian non-partizan league.

Now that the weeds are no longer a serious obstruction, the C. P. R. might make the 83 miles between Suffield and Lomond in less than 13 hours. In fact, the business of this district would warrant a daily service both ways on the branch. A schedule of six hours for the run would preclude the possibility of danger to live stock. It was believed that the Slocan City-Nelson unlimited, which occasionally makes 65 miles in 7 hours, was the very slowest, but the Lomond flier has that train beaten without reversing. During the grain-moving season there should be a freight train on the branch. The passenger crew have too much work to do during the busy season. However, as long as the people of the district quietly submit the C. P. R. will not improve the service.

A paper, printed in Calgary and dated Lomond, Sept. 4, appeared on the streets this week. It is said the same paper with the same matter and the same advertisements is issued and dated for Travers, Retlaw and Enchant. As a business proposition it is misleading, as it gives the impression that it is printed in the towns mentioned in its date lines. We have no quarrel with the business man who chooses to support an outside enterprise in preference to the home industry, but if all did so there would soon be no town. The earnings of the staff of The Lomond Press are spent in this district; the earnings of the other concern are spent in Calgary. It doesn't require very deep thinking to arrive at a conclusion as to which is a benefit or an injury to the community.

There is much criticism of the Franchise Act recently introduced in the Dominion parliament. We are at war. Aliens, whether enemy or neutral, and there is really no difference, cannot reasonably expect the privilege of voting on questions affecting the prosection of the war, and this is the paramount issue in the coming election. It is a poor argument to say Canada has allowed those people to become citizens, therefore they should not be disfranchised. They were granted all the privileges of Canadians, if in return they failed to give unqualified support to Canada and the Empire in the war they have proved themselves unfit for citizenship. The loss of the franchise is a small matter compared with the restrictions which will be placed on them as the war progresses. People of British birth are just commencing to "carry on" in the full sense of the term. In many parts of Canada aliens will not be allowed to vote whether the election act passes or not. This is a war of the Empire and her allies. In Canada there can be no neutrals. The immigrants who have settled in Canada are either with the Empire in this war, or they are enemies. There is no half-way house.

No stronger argument in favor of conscription could have been furnished than the events that have taken place on the eastern front during the past week. The pressure on the western front, apparently, must be made strong enough to keep all the Huns busy until Russia gets through with her internal bickerings. This is not the proper time to talk about taking a referendum vote. The enemy might be pounding at the gates of London before the ballots are counted.—Grand Forks Sun,

PROPRIETORS

The modern farm requires expensive buildings. In a few years these rapidly deteriorate unless protected by good paint.

SHERWIN-WILLIAMS

PAINTS AND VARNISHES FOR FARM USE

No farm owner can afford to leave his farm buildings unpainted. When new they appear to stand the weather alright, but surely and gradually the lumber begins to crack and check, decay starts, and before you realize it you have a leaky, draughty barn, and expensive repairs are necessary.

The regular use of paint means a small outlay occasionally, but it keeps your buildings as good as new.

S-W Barn Red is a special paint for painting farm buildings. It is economical in price and it gives good service. It is one of the full line of Sherwin-Williams Paints and Varnishes which we carry in stock.

Lomond District

Threshing rigs were at a stand still for a few days owing to the recent inclement weather.

Cars stalling in very awkward places have been frequent since the rain. A good suggestion might be a mule and chain or a Titan.

Many farmers are taking advantage of the moisture by breaking out pieces of sod. Scotty Culbard is also ploughing out the remainder of his potato patch as the first step in his determination to carry away the red ticket in that class at our next exhibition.

The Lomond people seem to be profoundly satisfied with their surroundings this fall notwithstanding their good intentions in their social circles.

It may not be popular for the country critic to censor town life, but we cannot be blamed for taking an interest in the little town we have watched growing in health and business with pride. A hint may yet prove beneficial to save many an innocent young man from being wrongfully reproached. The town's good name is at stake. Is there any who care?

Our wheat crop is better this year than at first supposed. Joe Rodgers can boost a yield of thirty bushels on summerfallow and others will have a good average crop.

W. Ainlay has been under the doctor's car for a few days.

Bob Sinclair's house is now plastered and will soon be ready for the finishing.

Howard Finley is buzzing around in his new car. We suggest that Howard remember that the best of cars are equipped with wheels instead of claws.

LOCALETS

R. H. Hughes is moving his drug business into the premises now about to be vacated by the bank.

"Duke" Armstrong was up in Calgary for a few days this week returning on Tuesday with Mr. Vanderburg in his big new model Mitchell car.

A. Parker has purchased C. M. Holo's farm equipment and has declared his intention of taking up a life pastoral. He has sold his town residence to L. Mr Swain.

Mr. Bannerman, demonstrator for the Overland cars, is in town. He and W. H. Smith each drove to Lomond this week a fine new model Overland for the new Lomond Agency.

J. A. Bowers came home from the city last night finding on his arrival a carload of Chevrolets awaiting to be unloaded.

Mr. Fitzgerald has moved his household furniture over from Vulcan and taken up residence in the house recently vacated by N. M. Harmon.

The Press office is receiving a coat of paint.

McKenna & Devaney, barristers, arrived in town on Thursday and have opened up their office in the new bank building.

Privilege To Threshermen.

Threshers, providing they are bona fide, may purchase and use canned vegetables providing they cannot get green vegetables, but in order to do so they must send a wire to W. J. Hanna, food controller, Ottawa, and obtain a licence from him.

NEW FALL GOODS

We are opening up new fall goods all the time. Our shelves are loaded with goods you will need for the colder weather, and it will be easy for you to get the material right at home that you would have formerly had to send away for. Come to the "Store of Good Service" and see what we have ready for your selection.

NEW LADIES' DRESS GOODS.

Serges and Gabardines, in the new plaids, browns, greens, greys, etc.: Just the thing for a new fall dress or suit, good value at the pricing of $1.00 and $2.00 per yard.

NEW TABLE DAMASKS AND LINENS

How is your table linen supply? Getting worn low? We have a nice new range of damasks and linens selling at 75c. and 95c. per yard.

Flannelettes for the Cool Weather.

The shorter days and cooler nights call for the new weight of clothes: Flannels and flannelettes are in big demand. Our new stock of plain and colored lines will fill the bill with a satisfactory degree of exactness.

NEW FALL SHOES FOR LADIES

Our latest shipment, opened this week, embodies the newest designs for the lady. Patents are coming in strong again. Cloth and suede tops, new comfort heel, all kids, etc., in fact a selection hard to equal outside of a city shoe shop. Drop in and take a look at these.

See the "Nursery" Shoe for the Kiddies

MEN'S FALL SUITS

"Art" Clothes have already made a name for themselves in the Lomond district, and their new fall and winter samples are already here for your selection. You will always feel well dressed if you wear an "Art" Suit.

THE GROCER TRADE

Make up your fall and winter grocery list and give us a chance of filling your bulk orders. We can surprise you on this class of purchasing. A trial will convince you of the truth of our statement.
